Short Background

From an early age, I have been deeply fascinated by IT, drawn to coding, gaming, and the mechanics of technology. My curiosity led me to explore, troubleshoot, and optimize both hardware and software, turning a simple hobby into a defining passion. Over time, I realized that technology is more than just a tool—it is an endless field of innovation and problem-solving. This journey has sharpened my analytical thinking, adaptability, and perseverance. With a strong foundation in software development, cybersecurity, and web technologies, I am driven to keep learning, innovating, and making a meaningful impact.
